WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 1.—In a three-hour session today the Washington conference approved both the naval limitation treaty and the treaty putting submarine warfare against merchant craft and gas and chemical warfare under the ban of the five-power disapproval. The plenary session then adjourned in call.

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 1.—At 12:26 p. m. today Secretary Hughes presented to the arms conference the text of the treaty for limitation of naval armaments. The entire time of today's plenary session of the conference, 1921 in its course, had been up to that moment consumed with the presentation and adoption of committee resolutions providing for the return of certain sovereignty to China and announcement of a settlement of the Shantung dispute. The naval treaty was not read, but Hughes outlined its terms, and declared that so far as capital ships are concerned, the "integrity" of the plan proposed on behalf of the American government had been maintained.

Arthur J. Balfour, head of the British delegation, described the Shantung settlement as the "renewing work of Secretary Hughes and his representatives of China and Japan," and then threw in another surprise by the fact announcement that Great Britain would hand back to China or lease on Wei-Hai-Wei.

There was a ripple of applause when Hughes announced the old battleship Oregon would be retained for noncombatant purposes because the state of Oregon wanted to keep it for historical and sentimental reasons. Touching on the system of armed settlements of capital ships, Mr. Hughes said: "I might call this the denaturing of capital ships." The phrase was greeted with laughter.
